TEUTONS ABOUT TO CAPITULATE TO FRANCE

FATE OF GERMANS WHO RESISTED AND EXPELLED, UNKNOWN

GOVERNMENT AND REICHSTAG HEARS OFFICIALLY TERMS ON WEDNESDAY

"CUT LOOSE FROM PRUSSIA" IS RALLYING CRY OF THE SEPARATISTS

(By United Press)
Berlin, Sept. 24.—Chancellor Stresemann today informed the Ruhr and Rhineland defense organizations of the government's decision to capitulate to France.

Resistance must be given up without conditions, the chancellor told the first delegates to visit him.

The fate of German citizens expelled from the occupied areas or imprisoned for obeying the government's order for resistance cannot be taken into consideration, Stresemann said.

However, the chancellor added, there is reason to believe the most of the Germans will be restored to their homes when official and public announcement of the decision to quit resistance is made.

Stresemann's statement to the delegates of the defense organization completely confirmed developments in the government's attitude towards the resistance program, as outlined exclusively in the daily United Press dispatches since last Wednesday.

The chancellor will make known the government's decision for conditional surrender to the delegates of the remaining Ruhr and Rhineland organizations later this afternoon.

The premiers will be informed tomorrow when they meet here. The government and the Reichstag hears it officially on Wednesday.

RHENISH SEPARATIST MOVEMENT GAINING

Mayence, Sept. 24.—While rumors of impending public announcement of Germany's capitulation to France circulated throughout the Rhineland today, the Rhenish separatist movement seemed to be gaining ground.

More than 5,000 upper Rhineland separatists attended a great mass meeting here yesterday and heard speeches by three leaders, Dr. Dorten, Herr Mathes and Herr Fraunstein. The watchword of all the speeches was: "Cut loose from Prussia."

"Germany intends to wage war anew as soon as the Rhineland and Ruhr are returned to her," Herr Mathes said. The meeting adopted a resolution calling the "attention of the world" to the misery caused in the Rhineland by the Berlin authorities, and appealed to France and Belgium to support the separatist movement.

BULGARIAN STATE TROOPS FIGHT RURAL INSURRECTIONISTS

Athens, Sept. 24.—Bulgarian government forces have lost 700 dead and more than 4,000 wounded in attacks against the Agrarian Insurrectionists, dispatches from Salonika said today.

Dispatches from Philippoli said the government forces were losing ground over the whole of southern and northeastern Bulgaria.

The king has issued a decree in Sofia dissolving the chamber of deputies, and calling for new elections within two months.

The Agrarians, after bitter fighting, captured Plevna and raised the red flag, an unconfirmed dispatch from Sofia said.

Other dispatches from Salonika reported the Serbians gathering on the Bulgarian frontier, and said troop movements were being hastened for the purpose of invading Bulgaria and occupying her colonies at the first opportunity.

SAW WAY OUT OF THE COUNTY JAIL

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM SCOTT COUNTY JAIL EARLY TODAY

(By United Press)

Shakopee, Minn., Sept. 24.—Two prisoners sawed their way out of the Scott county jail here early today and escaped in Sheriff Joseph E. Weckman's touring car.

Harry Gibson and Russell Doyle, held for the shooting of Al Reitz, Jordan policeman, last Sunday, are the fugitives.

They sawed two bars of a window, and escaped in the car. No one saw them, and no trace has been found.

Two daughters of Sheriff Weckman returned home about midnight and heard noises in the cell room. They thought nothing of it at the time, and retired. About an hour later G. Sommers, another prisoner, awoke and discovered his two jail mates gone. He called Sheriff Weckman.

The sheriff discovered they had taken his car from the garage. He at once enlisted aid, but could find no trail.

Gibson and Doyle were awaiting action by the grand jury next month. They were charged with first degree assault. Sheriff Weckman said Al Reitz, guardian of the law at Jordan, near here, attempted to arrest the pair as suspicious characters last Sunday. They fired five shots at him before they were captured.

CLAIMS WITNESSES WERE BRIBED IN TESTIMONY

(By United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 24.—After examining witnesses until early this morning, Assistant State's Attorney Chas. Wharton announced would recommend the charges of Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes that her millionaire husband had bribed underworld characters to testify that she had lived in the notorious Everleigh club be submitted to the grand jury.

Negroes who had worked in the Everleigh and other notorious resorts of two years ago had made affidavits stating Mrs. Stokes had visited the place, confessed, after hours of grueling examination, that their affidavits were untrue, Wharton announced.

Witnesses also admitted having received money from a man named Joe Bruner, described by Wharton as Stokes' "pay man."

Wharton later announced that he would recommend prosecution of Daniel Nugent, described as New York attorney for Stokes.

"I believe crime has been committed, and that prosecutions should follow," Wharton said. Nugent and Stokes are due here today, Wharton was informed.

22 PLANTS NOW MANUFACTURING CEREAL BEVERAGE, SAYS PROHIBITION DIRECTOR

DULUTH FIRM TURNS TO CANDY, VIRGINIA COMPANY MAKES ICE AND VINEGAR

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—More than half of the 52 breweries which were operating in Minnesota in 1919, have "weathered" prohibition and are being operated successfully in other commercial lines, S. B. Qvale, state prohibition director, said, following an investigation by his agents.

Of the 52 breweries, 22 now are manufacturing cereal beverages, 15 buildings are idle, four buildings have been torn down, four are being used as warehouses, three as ice houses and three as grain storehouses.

One Becomes Candy Plant

Large breweries of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth all are manufacturing soft drinks, with byproducts of industrial alcohol, perfumes, extracts. One of the Duluth breweries now is a wholesale candy plant.

"Only a few of the brewers are optimistic about a return of beer and light wines, apparently," Mr. Qvale said. "Of the 15 buildings which are idle, according to the findings of investigators, owners of practically all have dismantled the beer making machinery."

Three Breweries Operating Here

The three Minneapolis breweries still operating are the Minneapolis Brewing company, the Gluek Brewing company and the Purity Brewing company. The Minneapolis Brewing company is listed in the report as manufacturing cereal beverages, perfumes, rubbing alcohol and extracts. The other two are listed as manufacturers of cereal beverages.

Buildings torn down were at Henderson, Minn., Chaska, Minn., Silver Lake, Minn., and Sleepy Eye, Minn.

A brewery at Red Wing Minn., manufactured cereal beverages until Jan. 10, 1922, when federal authorities refused to renew the permit. Since then the building has remained idle, except for a near beer bar which is operated in one section of the structure. A large supply of beer is reported as stored under bond, at that plant.

The Yoerg Brewing company's plant, St. Paul, now is an ice plant. The brewery at Glencoe is a poultry warehouse, the one at Virginia, Minn., manufactures ice and vinegar.

"Three or four firms tried making cereal beverages, then abandoned the plan," Mr. Qvale said. "Apparently the ones now operating are making a success, despite the drastic change which prohibition required of them."

Note:—Brainerd's only brewery, operated by Edward Boppel, was dismantled before national prohibition.

N. P. SENDS OUT TRAIN OF NEW CARS

Heralds of an ample car supply to move northwest crops, 99 new Northern Pacific box cars left St. Paul, Minneapolis in a special train. The cars will be distributed in North Dakota and Montana.

The company has invested $14,500,000 in new equipment for 1923 including, in addition to the box cars, 1,000 50-ft. automobile, lumber and grain cars, 70 express refrigerators, 250 steel gondolas, 250 Hart convertible cars, 250 stock cars and 49 locomotives. Much of this equipment has already been delivered and all of it is contracted for delivery this year.

WONDERFUL ORCHARD OF JOHN HEADMAN—THE SCHUETY SQUASH

The Brainerd Dispatch office continues to be a sort of an aftermath of a county fair and subscribers bring in products of the garden, field and orchard.

John Headman of 1716 Maple street Southeast, has an orchard in which every tree is a 100 per cent worker. One winter apple tree produced two bushels. Three crabapple trees yielded seven bushels of fruit. Two trees gave a barrel of eating apples. Two small trees yielded a bushel of plums.

In the garden of Mrs. Gertie Schuety, 316 South Second street, was raised an immense Hubbard squash. A member of the family placed it on exhibition in the Dispatch office and it was all he could do to carry the squash.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR TAX BURDEN LAID ON STATE, COUNTY, CITY AUTHORITIES

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

Washington, Sept. 24.—Foreseeing inability to reduce federal taxation at the coming session of Congress, the Coolidge administration is fortifying itself with a defense and a reason.

Responsibility for the weight of the tax burden will be laid at the door of state, county and municipal authorities.

The federal government, the country will be told, imposes far less in proportion to the total taxation and to the revenue required of it than the local government.

Taking a leaf out of President Harding's book, President Coolidge intends to present this matter of local taxation. It may come up in the forthcoming conference with the governors.

Figures compiled by the census bureau will be used to show how tremendously the tax funding of the local governments has increased during a period when the Federal government, in response to clamor, was doing its utmost to keep expenditures down.

Some high administration officials expect it will be possible to reduce Federal taxation, pointing to the handsome treasury surplus increased revenues due in large measure to prosperous conditions and to continuance of the government's economy policy. But with a bonus bill almost certain to be passed and with new needs for next year, many other officials do not see how any appreciable tax cut can be accomplished.

The country will be told that any relief from taxation within the next year must come, if at all, through the reduction of local levies. The census bureau's figures show startling increases in state, county and municipal expenditures in the last decade.

SEARCH FOR GRAVE OF ROY SMITH

(By United Press)

Moorhead, Sept. 24.—Search for the grave of Roy Smith, murdered three years ago, was continued today on the farm of Peter Engle east of here.

Three men are held in jail pending the outcome of the investigation. Smith is alleged to have been slain in a drunken quarrel October 18, 1920. Sheriff Peter Mulvey of Clay county is plowing the ground in the vicinity where the grave is supposed to be.

WARNS AGAINST UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 24.—Warnings against the assembling of "more than two persons" at the Oklahoma state capitol where the legislature is scheduled to meet Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were issued by the executive today.

"It will not be safe for more than two persons to assemble in a group at the capitol—a wrong impression might result in a serious situation," the governor said.

Walton announced he had turned over the entire responsibility for preventing the state legislature from a meeting to Adj.-Gen. Markham, who is in charge of martial law enforcement in the governor's warfare on the Ku Klux Klan.

STARTED TO "ZOOM", AND PLANE CRASHED

(By United Press)

International Falls, Minn., Sept. 24.—When Lieut. Winston Hitt, aviator, started to "zoom" with two passengers over the Rainy river Sunday, they became excited, jammed the mechanism, and the plane crashed on the river banks.

T. A. Foss, 42, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, Fort Francis, Ont., was killed in the wreck, and his seven-year old son, injured. Lieut. Hitt was slightly hurt.

CALVIN L. BROWN, CHIEF JUSTICE, DIED SUDDENLY

RETIRED SUNDAY NIGHT IN USUAL HEALTH, STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE

MEMBERS OF FAMILY SEEKING TO AWAKEN HIM, FOUND HIM DEAD IN BED

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Calvin L. Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, died suddenly at his home early today.

He retired Sunday night in his usual health, it was stated, but was stricken by dawn with heart failure.

Members of his family who went to awaken him found him dead.

Chief Justice Brown was born on April 26, 1854, in Goshen, N. H., and came to Minnesota with his parents in 1855.

He was admitted to the bar in Minnesota in 1876 and settled at Morris, Minn., in 1878, where he began practice. He served as district judge, and later was named associate justice of the supreme court by Governor John Lind. He succeeded Justice Buck, who resigned.

Justice Brown was elected chief of the supreme court in 1912 and was re-elected in 1918.

Holt Acting Chief Justice

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Justice Andrew Holt, because of seniority, is acting chief justice of the supreme court today, and will continue to act until Governor Preus appoints a successor to Chief Justice Brown, who died early today.

Justice Brown's wife died in 1917. His son, Monteville J. Brown, now assistant to the attorney-general, was reached at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he was attending a conference of inheritance tax executives of the United States. He left at once for home.

There are three daughters, Mrs. B. J. Brahton of Willmar and the Misses Edna and Margaret Brown, both of Minneapolis. Miss Edna has been Justice Brown's private secretary for many years.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the return of the son.

BARN ON FIRE, CHILD CREMATED

St. Cloud, Minn., Sept. 24.—A mother stood by helplessly today and saw her three-year old daughter cremated in a barn which caught fire while the child was playing with matches.

Helen Gracas, child of Mr. and Mrs. John Gracas, living near Sauk Rapids, was the victim.

Held back by the flames, the frantic mother watched while the barn burned. The barn was filled with straw.

FARMERS' PROBLEM IS TRANSPORTATION

Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas farmer, who, if anyone, should know the facts about the farms, according to an exchange, says that transportation is the greatest problem that the United States has to solve.

The senator is quoted as saying in effect that when a good trunk highway parallels every trunk railroad; the railroads will no longer get 22 cents for hauling from Kansas to Chicago a bushel of wheat that costs the farmer $1.20 to produce and brings him $1.25 less freight to Chicago.

Senator Capper is quoted further: "The transportation problem neither begins nor ends with railroads. The highways problem daily becomes more and more vital. The making of automobiles is today a larger industry than the running of railroads; making of roads for automobiles and trucks is inevitably to become the greatest single industry of the country."

COOLIDGE IN HIS FIRST PUBLIC TALK SINCE PRESIDENCY

Washington, Sept. 24.—In his first public speech since he became president, Calvin Coolidge today revealed his position upon two important topics—international affairs and farmer relief.

Speaking at the opening session of the American Red Cross convention the president said:

That America will remain unencumbered by spoils, independent, unattached and unbought.

That the need of civilization is for an idealism that "does not seek to reform merely by an act of legislation, thinking thus to unload the burden on the government and be relieved from further effort."

Mr. Coolidge declared that the world is coming more and more to rely on moral force and less on physical.

But ideals of world brotherhood and service "are idle dreams unless they can be brought to practical action," he said.

LEAGUE IN DANGER, DELEGATE ASSERTS

SWEDISH ENVOY WARNS ASSEMBLY CRISIS HAS ENDANGERED ITS POSITION

Geneva, Sept. 24.—Baron E. T. Marks von Wurtemberg of Sweden, speaking before the assembly, said the League of Nations was "not showing that force which its founders expected."

Alluding to Italy's repudiation of the competency of the league to act in the Greco-Italian dispute, he said: "The recent severe crisis has endangered the league's very existence."

He admitted that the league had accomplished much, but he insisted that the council and assembly needed to employ all their force if the organization was to recover from its weakness and achieve its high intended place.

The commission on amendments recommended that the British amendment to Article XVI which deals with economic and financial sanctions against states committing acts of aggression, be referred to the next assembly.

GIRL HURT IN CAR WRECK

(By United Press)

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 24.—Irene Anderson, Moorhead, was cut and injured early today when a car driven by Ruth Johnson upset between Wolverton and Moorhead. She was brought to a hospital here.

KLAN MET AT WHITE HOUSE, SAYS PASTOR

Charlestown, W. Va., Sept. 24.—That the Ku Klux Klan held an initiation in the dining room of the White House was the statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton of Oklahoma, representing the klan imperial council, in an address at Hurricane, at a klan celebration.

"We have 227 in the house of representatives and 27 in the United States senate," the speaker said, "and we conducted one initiation in the dining room of the White House. You know what that means."

"He forgot to mention five members of the Harding cabinet," Dr. V. T. Churchman of Charleston, head of the klan organization in this section, whispered to a newspaperman.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The statement of Rev. Basil E. Newton at Charleston, W. Va., that an initiation of klansmen had been held in the White House was declared by White House officials to be "too ridiculous to discuss."

CRAFT FELL IN FLAMES AT NILESTERROOD, HOLLAND, SUNDAY NIGHT

2 SWISS BALLOONISTS BURNED TO DEATH WHEN THEIR CRAFT CAUGHT ON FIRE

(By United Press)

Brussels, Sept. 24.—Two Americans, Lieutenants Olmstead and Choptaw, pilot and second pilot of U. S. Army balloon S-6, which started out with thirteen others in the Gordon-Bennett cup race under extraordinary bad weather conditions Sunday, were killed when their craft fell at Nilesterrood, Holland, during the night.

The S-6 was struck by lightning and fell in flames.

Two Swiss balloonists were burned to death when their balloon, the Geneva, caught fire over Holland, and the Spanish pilot Peneranda was killed when lightning struck his balloon, the Polar, at Heyst.

A torrential storm drove over the starting field as the balloons took the air. The conditions under which they competed provided for no postponement.

Capt. H. E. Honeywell, American civilian entry, was unable to start. A gust of wind hit his balloon, the St. Louis, causing it to burst.

The U. S. Navy balloon, A-6699, with Lieut. Lawrence in command, was forced down at Rutten.

All the American entries were thus eliminated early in the classic.

Lieuts. Olmstead and Choptaw who were killed had a narrow escape in the start of the race. As their balloon was taking off the wind drove it into the Belgian Brussels, ripping the netting from the latter's gas bag and damaging it so that it was necessary to empty it of gas.

STARTED TO "ZOOM", AND PLANE CRASHED

(By United Press)
International Falls, Minn., Sept. 24.—When Lieut. Winston Hitt, aviator, started to "zoom" with two passengers over the Rainy river Sunday, they became excited, jammed the mechanism, and the plane crashed on the river banks.

T. A. Foss, 42, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, Fort Francis, Ont., was killed in the wreck, and his seven-year old son, injured. Lieut. Hitt was slightly hurt.

CALVIN L. BROWN, CHIEF JUSTICE, DIED SUDDENLY

RETIRED SUNDAY NIGHT IN USUAL HEALTH, STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE

MEMBERS OF FAMILY SEEKING TO AWAKEN HIM, FOUND HIM DEAD IN BED

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Calvin L. Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, died suddenly at his home early today. He retired Sunday night in his usual health, it was stated, but was stricken by dawn with heart failure.

Members of his family who went to awaken him found him dead.

Chief Justice Brown was born on April 26, 1854, in Goshen, N. H., and came to Minnesota with his parents in 1855.

He was admitted to the bar in Minnesota in 1876 and settled at Morris, Minn., in 1878, where he began practice. He served as district judge, and later was named associate justice of the supreme court by Governor John Lind. He succeeded Justice Buck, who resigned.

Justice Brown was elected chief of the supreme court in 1912 and was re-elected in 1918.

Holt Acting Chief Justice

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Justice Andrew Holt, because of seniority, is acting chief justice of the supreme court today, and will continue to act until Governor Peurs appoints a successor to Chief Justice Brown, who died early today.

Justice Brown's wife died in 1917. His son, Monteville J. Brown, now assistant to the attorney-general, was reached at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he was attending a conference of inheritance tax executives of the United States. He left at once for home.

There are three daughters, Mrs. B. J. Branton of Willmar and the Misses Edna and Margaret Brown, both of Minneapolis. Miss Edna has been Justice Brown's private secretary for many years.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the return of the son.

SEARCH FOR GRAVE OF ROY SMITH

(By United Press)
Moorhead, Sept. 24.—Search for the grave of Roy Smith, murdered three years ago, was continued today on the farm of Peter Engle east of here.

Three men are held in jail pending the outcome of the investigation. Smith is alleged to have been slain in a drunken quarrel October 18, 1920. Sheriff Peter Mulvey of Clay county is plowing the ground in the vicinity where the grave is supposed to be.

WARNS AGAINST UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 24.—Warnings against the assembling of "more than two persons" at the Oklahoma state capitol where the legislature is scheduled to meet Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were issued by the executive today.

"It will not be safe for more than two persons to assemble in a group at the capitol—a wrong impression might result in a serious situation," the governor said.

Walton announced he had turned over the entire responsibility for preventing the state legislature from a meeting to Adjt.-Gen. Markham, who is in charge of martial law enforcement in the governor's warfare on the Ku Klux Klan.

COOLIDGE IN HIS FIRST PUBLIC TALK SINCE PRESIDENCY

Washington, Sept. 24.—In his first public speech since he became president, Calvin Coolidge today revealed his position upon two important topics—International affairs and farmer relief.

Speaking at the opening session of the American Red Cross convention the president said:

That America will remain unencumbered by spoils, independent, unattached and unbought.

Mr. Coolidge declared that the world is coming more and more to rely on moral force and less on physical.

LEAGUE IN DANGER, DELEGATE ASSERTS

SWEDISH ENVOY WARNS ASSEMBLY CRISIS HAS ENDANGERED ITS POSITION

Geneva, Sept. 24.—Baron E. T. Marks von Wurtemberg of Sweden, speaking before the assembly, said the League of Nations was "not showing that force which its founders expected."

Alluding to Italy's repudiation of the competency of the league to act in the Greco-Italian dispute, he said: "The recent severe crisis has endangered the league's very existence."

He admitted that the league had accomplished much, but he insisted that the council and assembly needed to employ all their force if the organization was to recover from its weakness and achieve its high intended place.

The commission on amendments recommended that the British amendment to Article XVI which deals with economic and financial sanctions against states committing acts of aggression, be referred to the next assembly.

BARN ON FIRE, CHILD CREMATED

St. Cloud, Minn., Sept. 24.—A mother stood by helplessly today and saw her three-year old daughter cremated in a barn which caught fire while the child was playing with matches.

Helen Pracas, child of Mr. and Mrs. John Pracas, living near Sauk Rapids, was the victim.

Held back by the flames, the frantic mother watched while the barn burned. The barn was filled with straw.

FARMERS' PROBLEM IS TRANSPORTATION

Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas farmer, who, if anyone, should know the facts about the farms, according to an exchange, says that transportation is the greatest problem that the United States has to solve.

The senator is quoted as saying in effect that when a good trunk highway parallels every trunk railroad; the railroads will no longer get 22 cents for hauling from Kansas to Chicago a bushel of wheat that costs the farmer $1.20 to produce and brings him $1.25 less freight to Chicago.

Senator Capper is quoted further: "The transportation problem neither begins nor ends with railroads. The highways problem daily becomes more and more vital. The making of automobiles is today a larger industry than the running of railroads; making of roads for automobiles and trucks is inevitably to become the greatest single industry of the country."

AMERICAN GAS BAG S-6 WAS STRUCK BY A LIGHTNING BOLT

CRAFT FELL IN FLAMES AT NILESTERROOD, HOLLAND, SUNDAY NIGHT

2 SWISS BALLOONISTS BURNED TO DEATH WHEN THEIR CAUGHT ON FIRE

(By United Press)

Brussels, Sept. 24.—Two Americans, Lieutenants Olmstead and Choptaw, pilot and second pilot of U. S. Army balloon S-6, which started out with thirteen others in the Gordon-Bennett cup race under extraordinary bad weather conditions Sunday, were killed when their craft fell at Nilesterrood, Holland, during the night.

The S-6 was struck by lightning and fell in flames.

Two Swiss balloonists were burned to death when their balloon, the Geneva, caught fire over Holland, and the Spanish pilot Pendera was killed when lightning struck his balloon, the Polar, at Heyst.

A torrential storm drove over the starting field as the balloons took the air. The conditions under which they competed provided for no postponement.

Capt. H. E. Honeywell, American civilian entry, was unable to start. A gust of wind hit his balloon, the St. Louis, causing it to burst.

The U. S. Navy balloon, A-6699, with Lieut. Lawrence in command, was forced down at Rutten.

All the American entries were thus eliminated early in the classic.

Lieuts. Olmstead and Choptaw who were killed had a narrow escape in the start of the race. As their balloon was taking off the wind drove it into the Belgian Brussels, ripping the netting from the latter's gas bag and damaging it so that it was necessary to empty it of gas.

KLAN MET AT WHITE HOUSE, SAYS PASTOR

OFFICIALS AT WASHINGTON SAY CLAIM IS TOO RIDICULOUS TO DISCUSS

Charlestown, W. Va., Sept. 24.—That the Ku Klux Klan held an initiation in the dining room of the White House was the statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton of Oklahoma, representing the klan imperial council, in an address at Hurricane, at a klan celebration.

"We have 227 in the house of representatives and 27 in the United States senate," the speaker said, "and we conducted one initiation in the dining room of the White House. You know what that means."

"He forgot to mention five members of the Harding cabinet," Dr. V. T. Churchman of Charleston, head of the klan organization in this section, whispered to a newspaperman.

COUPLE'S RIGHT TO
SPOON IN AUTO UP TO SUPREME COURT

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Minnesota's supreme court will be asked to decide whether a husband is permitted to "spoon" with his wife, in an automobile parked at a curb.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Yates, 3940
Upton avenue N., who were arrested, released on $500 bail, found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $5 each, because two park policemen saw them sitting in their automobile, parked on Victory Memorial drive, have filed an appeal to the supreme court.

Municipal Judge C. L. Smith imposed sentence, and W. H. McDonald, attorney for the defendants, at once asked for and obtained a stay until Oct. 25, protesting the verdict in court as "an outrage."

"It is absurd to say that husband and wife, riding in an automobile, cannot stop where they please, as long as they are law abiding, and are not creating a disturbance," Mr. Mc-Donald said.

G. H. Johnson and J. Karp, park policemen, happened along Memorial drive, saw the Yates automobile parked about two blocks from their home, and arrested the couple, charging them with disorderly conduct.

The husband and wife testified they had stopped the car at that point, while en route home from a theatre, to talk over domestic problems. They were entertaining relatives at home, they explained, and chose to have their discussion outside of the residence. They denied emphatically the charge of disorderly conduct.

years. Their two children, aged 3 and 5, were in court during the trial.

AT ST. PAUL CONVENTION

Delegates to Auxiliary of Ancient Order of Hibernians Royally Entertained

Mrs. Catharine O'Connor, Mrs. Louise Murphy, and Mrs. Kathleen Early returned on Friday evening from St. Paul where they attended the 14th biennial convention of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians. Mesdames O'Connor and Murphy were delegates from Crow Wing county and Mrs. Early is on the state board of directors.

Mrs. O'Connor acted on the press committee, Mrs. Murphy on the juvenile and Mrs. Early as chairman of the resolutions and member of constitution and by laws.

Headquarters were at St. Francis hotel and most of the social activities were held at the Hibernian club house corner of Summit and Arundel, which was formerly the residence of Vice President Slade of the Northern Pacific.

On Tuesday evening a formal reception was held with a fine musical program. The state officers of both orders were in the receiving line to greet the delegates and assembled guests. Light refreshments were served. On Wednesday evening a dance was held, on the first floor, Irish step dances were given and old time square dances. On the next floor the modern dances held sway. On Thursday evening installation of officers took place accompanied by a very fine program of readings and music. Mayor Nelson of St. Paul gave a wonderful welcome to the delegates and gave them a vivid description of the greatness of St. Paul. He said statistics showed that St. Paul stood fifth in building permits in the month of August, being exceeded only by New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Pittsburg. One could readily see the Mayor Nelson intends to keep St. Paul on the map.

At the joint meeting of the two orders 275 delegates were present from all parts of the state.

A Pension for Old Dan

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

"WELL, Dan, what is it?" Dan, who had been night watchman with the Snyder company for forty years, shuffled from one foot to the other at the president's impatient remark.

"I—I just come in to pass the time of day, sir."

The president nodded indulgently, for old Dan had been a privileged character. "Always pleased to see you, Dan. Getting on all right?"

"Yes, thank you, sir." Dan beat a retreat. How could he tell Mr. Lucas what he had come for? He was too old for work, the company said. Dan was seventy. And he had come to ask for his job back instead of the pension. Only his courage had failed him at the last.

Ten dollars a week, and another six from his investments of a lifetime, and nothing to do now that Kathleen was married. A lonely life for a lonely old man. It had been so fine when he was night watchman. Not a bit lonely then, with Mulligan, the cop, to gossip with when he made his rounds, and all the sights and sounds of the night life of the city.

After that he never dared approach the president again, but he took to haunting the vicinity of the warehouse by night. He didn't altogether trust Corrigan, the man who had taken his place. He was suspicious of Corrigan. It was just a sixth sense, that was all.

Probably an old man's folly. But Dan took to watching the warehouse, though more for the sake of old times than to keep an eye on Corrigan—at least, until that night when, from his post across the street, he saw the two men sneak up to Corrigan and hold a consultation with him.

Of course that might have been all right, only there was something mysterious in the way they acted, and after that old Dan was on the watch every night. He was drawing his pension; he was still in a way night watchman.

It was on the third night thereafter that he saw the motor van turn into the empty yard of the Snyder company. That was no Snyder van. And then Dan knew. He knew without any need of seeing the stealthy conference, or Corrigan's disappearance down the flight of stairs that led to the warehouse by way of the packing house. The cop, no longer Mulligan, wouldn't know that—he was green. But Dan knew.

Standing in one of the recesses of the old rambling building Dan watched the bolts of silk being carried out to the motor van. He wanted the thieves to take all that they intended to, to store it all—then—then—

Then he blew his whistle and rapped, rapped on the sidewalk for police assistance in the way that even the green cop could not mistake, and leaped at the figure in the van.

He felled him to the cobbles with the old truncheon that he had carried for twenty years past. Then he turned to face the two other figures. They

"Bringing Up Father" at New Park Tonight

Something radically a departure from the usual and conventional in musical comedy is promised in "Bringing Up Father On Broadway" which is to hold the boards at the New Park tonight only. The new cartoon play, based on the famous comics by George McManus, is in two acts and five scenes. John P. Mulligan is the author of the book and lyrics. A real plot involving plenty of side-splitting complications and situations and written on original lines takes the various characters around the world. Of course, the beloved Jiggs Mahoney will be a conspicuous figure. And it may be assured that Maggie, his termangan better half, along with Dinty Moore and Kitty are also in the limelight.

There were a few moments of furious struggle. He was glad that was Corrigan whom he had hit. He liked the sound the truncheon made on the new night watchman's head. But the third thief wrested the stick out of his hand. His hands closed on Dan's throat.

To and fro they wrestled. Dan was a strong old man, but he was an old man. In his prime he would have been more than a match for this gangster. Now he felt his strength ebbing from him.

Still, he clung to him, fighting for all he was worth, and the gangster had no time to lose. At any moment the cops would be down upon them now. Drawing a gun from his coat pocket, the gangster fired.

Dan heard the roar and a thousand lights seemed to flare out in his brain. He felt no pain, but his clutch relaxed. Down he sank upon the cobbles just as the police rushed in and captured the confederates.

"He's going fast," said the night nurse at the hospital.

Dan opened his eyes. Wonder of wonders, they fell upon the face of the president. His lips moved. The president bent over him.

"What is it, Dan?" "Would ye take me back, sir, instead of my pension? It's kind of lonely, sir."

Kathleen's lips made an imperceptible signal to Mr. Lucas. "Yes, Dan, yes," answered the president. "You can come back to work on Monday."

Dan smiled. He sank back happily on the pillows. He would not be lonely in the evenings any more.

Saunders Tells Failure To Get Ford Backing

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—Advt.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS LOSES PRESTIGE

It is possible to force through a policy that seems to promise a larger good but for which the world is not ready. When this is done the inevitable break-down of the policy sometimes defeats the ends of those who introduced it. A policy which invites the merging of the individual or the state in a larger unit and calls for the submission of these to the larger whole, cannot be pursued with the assurance of success unless the individual or the state is ready to stand for the policy when selfish advantage is against it. Otherwise accepting the policy means nothing when the time of testing comes.

The League of Nations came into existence because of the demand for an instrument that might be used to prevent an outbreak of war between states, which would be prevented because the states had agreed to certain lines of action and, if one or two refused to order themselves according to it, the others would bring pressure to bear upon them. But it was born at the wrong time. It came into being when the spirit of nationalism had been fanned to a white heat, patriotism had been preached from the house tops and the war spirit had tended to exalt the prestige of the state. It is true that ideals were put forward and men talked about making the world safe for democracy, but this ideal was doomed to defeat for a long time to come by the very spirit that had been ascendant during the war.

While the months of that long struggle brought their tale of destruction and death the idea was commonly held that out of it something good would come. It was described as a wind that, blowing over the nations, would drive away impurities and bring in a wholesome social, political and international order. These ideas were soon seen to be the hallucinations of imaginations excited by the war period and their promise was not in any way fulfilled.

The League of Nations has not been a big success because the spirit of peoples was not ripe for it. Until nations enter into compacts in a spirit that determines that, even though it may be to their disadvantage to do so, they will stand by the compact which they have signed, it will be impossible to secure that international co-operation which promises a larger good.

The League of Nations has been losing prestige but when the causes are canvassed, those who wish to be fair to the ideal embodied in it, even though they disapprove of certain parts of the instrument, will be ready to admit that such ideals are not to be discounted merely because they break down at a time when the world is not ready for their trial. Arguments used against an association of nations are similar to the arguments that were used by those who opposed any association of the states that compose the United States. Then, it seemed to some that the merging of the states in a larger unit would be fatal to the best interests of the individual states just as today it is claimed that the merging of nations in a larger unit would work disadvantage to the individual nations. The United States shows what has resulted from uniting the states, and the day is bound to come when the nations, keeping their national rights within their own borders, will be merged in a unity that has a decisive voice on matters of international relations.

Because the instrument has not worked well is not a sufficient reason for attacking the ideal that led to its creation. Until the spirit of the people is ready for such an instrument the instrument is of little value, but when the peoples see that they must yield to the larger will and observe compacts entered into with other peoples, some instrument will be prepared to serve the peoples' will.

THE ONE BIG UNION

LABOR leaders are generally opposed to the one big union idea. Their opposition is born of knowledge of the development of the union movement and it is because of what they know of the history of this movement, with its struggle through a long period, resulting in a steady advance, that they are strongly opposed to the one big union idea.

William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, who spoke last week in St. Paul, pointed to the history of the labor unions and asked that workers attend to that history so that they may see the wisdom of working through them instead of through some new organization. It may be said that the one big union does not represent a new organization but an amalgamation of the present unions. This is true, but while it is true it is also true that the intent of the one big union differs from the purpose underlying the unions. The labor unions exist and have always existed to win for the workers better working conditions and fair compensation for work done. Working within the different industries the unions have sought to win results for the workers within these industries, each attending to its own members though at times giving financial and moral aid to workers in other industries. The one big union idea is not in line with the policy of the labor unions. It seeks the control of industry by the workers. It is built on the assumption that if all the workers are organized in one union that union will be strong enough to control industry in the interest of the workers. Without doubt it has been introduced as a result of the larger, stronger and closer association of capitalists, whose interlocking directorates have fostered the idea in the minds of some labor leaders that these can be met successfully only by larger, stronger and closer association of workers. But these may be fought in other ways than organizing for a test of strength between the two, resulting in inevitable industrial disturbances that would cause grave disorders in the United States.

Labor may work through its unions within each industry and work through the ballot box to readjust what is wrong and they have more votes than their opponents of whom they complain.

There ought to be no American sanction of the rulership of the capitalists or the workers. In the United States both should have their proper expression and neither should be in control. Control in America is mutual or it ought to be. Capitalist control or worker control is outside of the American purpose and principle, for America means citizen control. The employer and the worker may decide their relations through employer associations and labor unions but neither should seek to control America by their strength, in capital on one side, or numbers on the other; they are citizens outside of the factory and as such have the same rights as one another and as that larger number who are not a party to their controversies.

EUROPE IS MORE HOPEFUL

CIRCUMSTANCES seem to be working to the advantage of the Poincare and Baldwin ministries. Germany is about ready to yield to the will of the French government and just now the situation in Europe is more hopeful than it has been for a long time. If Germany and France agree the friction between France and Britain will be ended and already the French papers are rejoicing over the good relations that obtain in the councils of the governments at either side of the English channel.

Present developments seem to point to the wisdom of Lord Curzon's policy. After sending his strong note to France the Foreign secretary remained silent and did not attempt to do those things that it seemed he must do after declaring the British policy in that strong note. Nothing was done, despite the protests of the major part of the British press, and while the fate of Europe seemed to be hanging in the balance the cabinet officers were away from London enjoying a vacation. It looks as though that vacation has done more for Europe than notes and arguments and conferences. J. B. Priestley has argued that if Wordsworth could speak to this age he would say "the whole world would be better off if it spent the next ten years, as it were, lying flat on its back on a moor, doing nothing." Governments, peoples and groups are out to make things happen. But things can not be forced.

If the silence of Lord Curzon, which followed upon his note results in a settlement of the vexed reparations question the brilliant essayist whom we have quoted may be nearer right than might be expected. There are victories of silence as well as of speechmaking and letter writing.

The great need today is a silence in which mankind will be disposed to listen to the voices that speak without human lips, the voices of conditions, misfortunes, poverty, hatred, lawlessness and the submerged crowds that were unfortunately born, unequally reared and inequity treated by the social order, which, in turn, will give rise to a great concern that will result in a serious and steady determination to remove these burdens, to right these wrongs, to cast out these evils of thought and action. Social, political and industrial conditions reflect the spirit of a people and when the spirit of the people is changed they are changed.

DESTROYING GUIDE SIGNS.

THERE is a perversity in human nature that will find expression and those whose natures are inclined to destruction of the property of others will find something to destroy even though they may be destroying public property and may through their destructiveness endanger the lives of others.

The State Highway department has called attention to the fact that guide signs along the highways, placed there to safeguard human lives, have been damaged. The announcement brings a sense of shock to those who cannot understand the perversity of persons who will deliberately damage public property whose purpose is beneficial. Some of the signs show that persons have fired at them while others have been damaged in other ways. It is hard to conceive of a sportsman finding pleasure in discharging his gun at these signs. Those guilty of such a practice forfeit the right to claim that they are sportsmen.

Apart from the danger to those using the roads, and caused through the destruction of the signs, there is another effect that is objectionable. The signs serve a useful purpose, although they do not beautify the highways, and when they are shot up or damaged in other ways they become positively unsightly. This adds to the mischief done by those who damage them. They destroy public property, endanger other lives and make the highways less pleasing to the people using them, and in doing this they are endangering themselves and robbing the highways, which they themselves travel, of the pleasing appearance which they would otherwise possess.

Good citizens will assist the State Highway department in preserving the guide posts and will seek to facilitate the department's effort to bring persons guilty of destroying them into the courts.

BILL BOARDS ON TRUNK HIGHWAYS

OTHER states are attending to the effort that the State Highway department of Minnesota is making to enforce the law which requires the removal of bill-boards from the highway right-of-way. Papers outside of this state are pointing out that these bill-boards are objectionable in that they slow up travel and are unseemly.

The time will come when an aroused public will protest the use of land adjacent to the highways for advertising purposes and will demand that such disfigurements be eliminated. It may be that advertising that meets a certain test will be tolerated but cheap and unsightly advertising will not be allowed to hide natural scenery and insult the eye at every turn of the road.

The public will decide that such advertising is an intrusion that is not to be tolerated and will demand freedom from this intrusion of shrieking advertisements along the road-side. The time for this, however, is still ahead, but the bill-boards on the right-of-way have already been condemned in Minnesota and they are subject to removal.

The tourist has reason to appreciate this decision for his annoyance has been great when he has stopped again and again to read a sign, expecting that it would show his location, and, to his chagrin, he has read an advertisement for some patent medicine or for some breakfast food or other merchandise.

THE operators have put 70 to 90 cents a ton on the price of coal at the mine. Governor Pinchot has done a good work in bringing about a settlement and now it is up to him to keep down prices in spite of the operators who are intent upon discrediting him. Governor Pinchot used to be able to put up quite a fight.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS in American money goes a long way in Germany at this time. This amount goes to a German city through the will of a lady who died in the United States, and it will pay the city's debt. If Brainerd's debt was paid in marks it would be necessary to increase the forces at the city hall.

BRAINERD's high school football team is out to win, and one-time footballers are beginning to get excited as the season opens. Their toes itch to kick and their hands just close on the ball.

THE trouble of modern inventions is that both sides can use them. Tear gas makes both criminals and law officers cry. And when both get masks, again, what's the use?

HENRY FORD forgot to pay his hotel bill and they didn't lock him up for beating it out of town. Men with less responsibility sometimes forget to pay the barber.

THE mark is on its way back, but it will be a long time before it will be wise to cash in the million that were bought for one dollar.

THE cooperative idea is growing and in Minnesota will include potatoes and books on the campus of the University.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS LOSES PRESTIGE

It is possible to force through a policy that seems to promise a larger good but for which the world is not ready. When this is done the inevitable break-down of the policy sometimes defeats the ends of those who introduced it. A policy which invites the merging of the individual or the state in a larger unity and calls for the submission of these to the larger whole, cannot be pursued with the assurance of success unless the individual or the state is ready to stand for the policy when selfish advantage is against it. Otherwise accepting the policy means nothing when the time of testing comes.

The League of Nations came into existence because of the demand for an instrument that might be used to prevent an outbreak of war between states, which would be prevented because the states had agreed to certain lines of action and, if one or two refused to order themselves according to it, the others would bring pressure to bear upon them. But it was born at the wrong time. It came into being when the spirit of nationalism had been fanned to a white heat, patriotism had been preached from the house tops and the war spirit had tended to exalt the prestige of the state. It is true that ideals were put forward and men talked about making the world safe for democracy, but this ideal was doomed to defeat for a long time to come by the very spirit that had been ascendant during the war.

While the months of that long struggle brought their tale of destruction and death the idea was commonly held that out of it something good would come. It was described as a wind that, blowing over the nations, would drive away impurities and bring in a wholesome social, political and international order. These ideas were soon seen to be the hallucinations of imaginations excited by the war period and their promise was not in any way fulfilled.

The League of Nations has not been a big success because the spirit of peoples was not ripe for it. Until nations enter into compacts in a spirit that determines that, even though it may be to their disadvantage to do so, they will stand by the compact which they have signed, it will be impossible to secure that international co-operation which promises a larger good.

The League of Nations has been losing prestige but when the causes are canvassed, those who wish to be fair to the ideal embodied in it, even though they disapprove of certain parts of the instrument, will be ready to admit that such ideals are not to be discounted merely because they break down at a time when the world is not ready for their trial. Arguments used against an association of nations are similar to the arguments that were used by those who opposed any association of the states that compose the United States. Then, it seemed to some that the merging of the states in a larger unity would be fatal to the best interests of the individual states just as today it is claimed that the merging of nations in a larger unity would work disadvantage to the individual nations. The United States shows what has resulted from uniting the states, and the day is bound to come when the nations, keeping their national rights within their own borders, will be merged in a unity that has a decisive voice on matters of international relations.

Because the instrument has not worked well is not a sufficient reason for attacking the ideal that led to its creation. Until the spirit of the people is ready for such an instrument the instrument is of little value, but when the peoples see that they must yield to the larger will and observe compacts entered into with other peoples, some instrument will be prepared to serve the peoples' will.

THE ONE BIG UNION

LABOR leaders are generally opposed to the one big union idea. Their opposition is born of knowledge of the development of the union movement and it is because of what they know of the history of this movement, with its struggle through a long period, resulting in a steady advance, that they are strongly opposed to the one big union idea.

William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, who spoke last week in St. Paul, pointed to the history of the labor unions and asked that workers attend to that history so that they may see the wisdom of working through them instead of through some new organization. It may be said that the one big union does not represent a new organization but an amalgamation of the present unions. This is true, but while it is true it is also true that the intent of the one big union differs from the purpose underlying the unions. The labor unions exist and have always existed to win for the workers better working conditions and fair compensation for work done. Working within the different industries the unions have sought to win results for the workers within these industries, each attending to its own members though at times giving financial and moral aid to workers in other industries. The one big union idea is not in line with the policy of the labor unions. It seeks the control of industry by the workers. It is built on the assumption that if all the workers are organized in one union that union will be strong enough to control industry in the interest of the workers. Without doubt it has been introduced as a result of the larger, stronger and closer association of capitalists, whose interlocking directorates have fostered the idea in the minds of some labor leaders that these can be met successfully only by larger, stronger and closer association of workers. But these may be fought in other ways than organizing for a test of strength between the two, resulting in inevitable industrial disturbances that would cause grave disorders in the United States.

GEORGE LEDOUX DROWNED IN RIVER

Was Working on Raft Near "Appar's Point," North of Merrifield Road Bridge

WAS SEEN TO PITCH INTO WATER

Body Found in 20 Feet of Water by A. W. White, First Aid Applied

George Ledoux, employed in picking logs out of the Mississippi river for the J. A. Juncas Co., was drowned about eight o'clock Monday morning while at work on a raft about a quarter of a mile north of what is known as "Appar's Point" just north of the river bridge on the Merrifield road.

Mr. Ledoux had gone to work about seven o'clock and was working alone. Sylvester Kelly and A. W. White were just rowing out to start the same kind of work on a nearby raft, when they saw Ledoux pitch headlong into the river.

Mr. Kelly went back to get help and Mr. White rowed at once to the raft, where he secured a long pole fitted with a hook, and immediately brought the body to the surface, from the twenty feet of water in which it lay.

Kelly administered first aid and did all in his power to revive Ledoux. Dr. R. A. Beise was called as was Coroner D. E. Whitney, who took his lungmotor to the scene of the accident. All efforts to save the man's life failed.

Several theories are put forward as possible causes for Ledoux falling into the water. His face is badly bruised just below each temple, which leads his fellow-workers to believe that he was hurt on his raft, either by a pole hitting him or becoming caught in the levers or sweeps on the raft.

George Ledoux was born at Belle Prairie, December 13th, 1894. He has lived in Crow Wing county practically all of his life. He was married nine years ago to Miss Buelah Van Dron and for a short time lived in North Dakota.

He has worked for the Juncas Company for the past five years, first at the saw mill near Fort Ripley and later in the Brainerd mill. This summer he began the building of a home on his lots, 1019 Mill street, where the family has been living in temporary quarters, and to earn more money he stopped his mill work and began getting dead head logs out of the river.

Beside his wife, he is survived by four children, all small, Della, Edna, Ruby and Oliver. Also by his mother, Mrs. Mary Ledoux, 1017 Seventh avenue, N. E., four sisters, Miss Lilly Ledoux, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Louis Schmit, of this county, Mrs. Minnie Doucet and Mrs. Odile Dougherty, the latter two residing in Canada, also six brothers, David, Edward, John, Lezin, Victor and Eugene, all living in this vicinity except the latter, who resides in Tower City, N. D.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made, pending word from out-of-town relatives, but will be announced later in the Dispatch.

MRS. EMMA BROCKWAY DIED

Word has just been received announcing the death of Mrs. Emma Brockway, widow of the late Alfred Brockway, and a pioneer resident of Brainerd.

Mrs. Brockway died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Smallwood, in Minot, N. D., on Saturday.

The remains will be brought to Brainerd for interment, probably arriving this evening. Funeral arrangements will be announced later with a story of her life.

MAKING MEN'S HATS

There are many more details in the making of men's hats than a person outside the business imagines, and the various steps through which the hat goes are graphically depicted in the windows of the John M. Bye store, where the Schoble hat is shown from the raw fur state to the finished article.

Hats are made from the furs of animals which come from all parts of the globe. They are known as Scotch cone, from Scotland, Belgian hare from Belgium, Austria and Russia, beaver otter and mink from the north and central sections of America, nutria from South America, coney and rabbits from New Zealand, Tasmania and Australia. The American rabbit has no value for use in fine hats.

No one kind of fur will make a good hat alone, therefore, it is a study to determine the proper mixture. The first process is the cutting of the fur from the skins, then sorting these furs, for the backs, sides, flanks and bellies produce different grades of hats. With the land animal, the fur from the back is the finest, with the water animal, it is just the reverse, the fur on the belly is the best.

The fur for each hat is carefully weighed according to the size depth and brim, extra care being exercised in allotment of material that goes into each hat.

The forming of the bodies of the hat is the next process, which is done over large perforated copper cones placed on a revolving cylinder. A fan operating at high speed directly under the cone draws the fur onto the wet cone. Hot water and steam play an important part in the shrinking of the cone-shaped mass of hair, now called "felt," into the required hat shape and size.

Next come the dye stage, the shaping into soft hat or derby and the finishing, putting in bands, tapping rims, etc., after which the hat is ready for the market.

Ehrich-Hieble

Henry Ehrich of Ironton and Miss Anna Hieble of Brainerd were married in that city Wednesday September 12. The ceremony was performed by Fr. The groom is one of the earliest residents of Ironton, and spent his childhood on a farm near Cuyuna before the range was discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Ehrich will make their home in Ironton, having furnished a home in Morningside Park.—Ironton News.

MRS. A. J. THOMPSON DIED

Passed Away After Severe Illness Extending Over Several Years

Mrs. Agnes J. Thompson, well known Brainerd resident, passed away Sunday afternoon at 1:30, at a local hospital, after a severe illness extending over several years.

Agnes Bye was born in Trondhjem, Norway, June 1st, 1873. She came to Brainerd in the year 1881, and with the exception of a few years' residence in Duluth, has made her home in this city.

In October, 1896, she was married to Theodore Thompson, of Afton, Minnesota, and moved to Duluth where they lived until her husband's death in 1902. GEORGE LEDOUX DROWNED IN RIVER

Was Working on Raft Near "Apgar's Point," North of Merrifield Road Bridge

WAS SEEN TO PITCH INTO WATER

Body Found in 20 Feet of Water by A. W. White, First Aid Applied

George Ledoux, employed in picking logs out of the Mississippi river for the J. A. Joncas Co., was drowned about eight o'clock Monday morning while at work on a raft about a quarter of a mile north of what is known as "Apgar's Point" just north of the river bridge on the Merrifield road.

Mr. Ledoux had gone to work about seven o'clock and was working alone. Sylvester Kelly and A. W. White were just rowing out to start the same kind of work on a nearby raft, when they saw Ledoux pitch headlong into the river.

Mr. Kelly went back to get help and Mr. White rowed at once to the raft, where he secured a long pole fitted with a hook, and immediately brought the body to the surface, from the twenty feet of water in which it lay.

Kelly administered first aid and did all in his power to revive Ledoux. Dr. R. A. Beise was called as was Coroner D. E. Whitney, who took his lungmotor to the scene of the accident. All efforts to save the man's life failed.

Several theories are put forward as possible causes for Ledoux falling into the water. His face is badly bruised just below each temple, which leads his fellow-workers to believe that he was hurt on his raft, either by a pole hitting him or becoming caught in the levers or sweeps on the raft.

George Ledoux was born at Belle Prairie, December 13th, 1894. He has lived in Crow Wing county, practically all of his life. He was married nine years ago to Miss Buelah Van Dron and for a short time lived in North Dakota.

He has worked for the Joncas Company for the past five years, first at the saw mill near Fort Ripley and later in the Brainerd mill. This summer he began the building of a home on his lots, 1019 Mill street, where the family has been living in temporary quarters, and to earn more money he stopped his mill work and began getting dead head logs out of the river.

Beside his wife, he is survived by four children, all small, Della, Edna, Ruby and Oliver. Also by his mother, Mrs. Mary Ledoux, 1017 Seventh avenue, N. E., four sisters, Miss Lilly Ledoux, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Louis Schmit, of this county, Mrs. Minnie Doucet and Mrs. Odile Dougherty, the latter two residing in Canada, also six brothers, David, Edward, John, Lezin, Victor and Eugene, all living in this vicinity except the latter, who resides in Tower City, N. D.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made, pending word from out-of-town relatives, but will be announced later in the Dispatch.

MAKING MEN'S HATS

There are many more details in the making of men's hats than a person outside the business imagines, and the various steps through which the hat goes are graphically depicted in the windows of the John M. Bye store, where the Schoble hat is shown from the raw fur state to the finished article.

Hats are made from the furs of animals which come from all parts of the globe. They are known as Scotch cone, from Scotland, Belgian hare from Belgium, Austria and Russia, beaver otter and mink from the north and central sections of America, nutria from South America, coys and rabbits from New Zealand, Tasmania and Australia. The American rabbit has no value for use in fine hats.

No one kind of fur will make a good hat alone, therefore, it is a study to determine the proper mixture. The first process is the cutting of the fur from the skins, then sorting these furs, for the backs, sides, flanks and bellies produce different grades of hats. With the land animal, the fur from the back is the finest, with the water animal, it is just the reverse, the fur on the belly is the best.

The fur for each hat is carefully weighed according to the size depth and brim, extra care being exercised in allotment of material that goes into each hat.

The forming of the bodies of the hat is the next process, which is done over large perforated copper cones, placed on a revolving cylinder. A fan operating at high speed directly under the cone draws the fur onto the wet cone. Hot water and steam play an important part in the shrinking the cone-shaped mass of hair, now called "felt," into the required hat shape and size.

Next come the dye stage, the shaping into soft hat or derby and the finishing, putting in bands, tapping rims, etc., after which the hat is ready for the market.

UNCLE SAM SHARES BIG FIGHT PURSES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 24.—Many opportunities may be presented for Jack Dempsey to resume work late this fall and during the winter, but there is little chance that he will accept any offers to fight again until next year.

Some time ago several promoters went after Jack Kearns to sign Dempsey for a match with Harry Greb, the middleweight champion, for a late, outdoor or an early indoor show, and Kearns refused to consider any purse.

Kearns said that Dempsey had earned all he was allowed to this year and he pointed out that the firm had reached the limit allowed by the law in his class and if they exceeded it they would have to pay about 60 per cent of the purse money to the government in taxes.

Under the present conditions, Dempsey gets an awful socking by the revenue department every time he puts on the gloves. It sounds like a pipe to hear of Dempsey getting $200,000, $350,000 and $500,000 for a fight, but if the fans could see what is left for him when he is through splitting up with Kearns and the government, they would not be howling for congressional action to cut down the money that he is earning.

Out of a $300,000 purse, Dempsey has just about $100,000 for himself when he gets through whacking out the other ends of the money. Of course, $100,000 is not to be sneezed at, but it is not $300,000. The money that a heavyweight gets for the actual defense of his title is rather trivial, however, compared to the receipts from other sources of revenue that are opened by possession of the title.

It is understood that Dempsey's revenue averaged from $3,500 to $5,000 per week for three years. He earned a lot of money on the stage, in the movies and for the use of his name for advertising purposes.

Babe Ruth, it is said, got close to $10,000 royalties last year from a manufacturing firm who sold Babe Ruth caps. He got almost as much from the sale of suspenders, belts and baseball uniforms bearing his name and from the literary masterpieces turned out under his signature.

Dempsey's revenue from the same source must have been much more, because the heavyweight championship is worth more in advertising even than the clout title of baseball.

Firpo, it is understood, made a half million dollars in seven months when he was fighting his way up to a championship bout with Dempsey. The South American, however, got practically every cent of his earnings for himself, as he has no manager. Dempsey and Kearns, it is said, work fifty-fifty on everything.

Dempsey, however, should give Kearns a big split, as he would not have earned as much if he had been taking it all if he did not have such a schrowd manager.

Kearns not only made the big purses possible for Dempsey but he increased the scale of wages for every boxer in every division.

"Jack Kearns is the greatest manager that ever lived," Johnny Kilbane, the former featherweight champion, said at Shelby, before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. "If he had not been persistent enough and game enough to brave criticism and force the promoters to give him real money, champions and the rest of the boxers would still be working for pork-and-bean wages. He argued that the fighters made the show and that they were entitled to make at least as much as the promoters and he got away with it."

Kilbane was crafty enough to do his own managing and Johnny Dundee, the present featherweight champion, has also handled himself for several years. It is argued that Dundee would have made much more money if he had someone to handle his affairs with all the more push.

BOXER LOSES 10 POUNDS' TRAINING WITH ELEVEN

Sioux City, Sept. 24.—W. H. "Big" Munn, returned from Lincoln after a week of intensive work with the University of Nebraska football squad and announced that he had lost 10 pounds. His present weight is 261. After a short stay at his home here he will go to St. Paul to train under the expert eye of Mike Gibbons. Whether or not he will be able to make his first fight by the middle of October depends, he said, on how fast he comes along at St. Paul.

who had been hunting near Sand lake, who claimed it a grouse, but the bird is not marked like a grouse, neither has it the markings of a prairie chicken. It is a larger bird than the ordinary partridge and its bill is sharper. Rustad is of the belief that the bird is a "half breed" and a freak of nature. It is the strangest looking fowl, he claims, he has seen in all his hunting experience. It has been sent to the office of the department in St. Paul.

BRAINERD HIGH

LOSES TO STAPLES

Blue and White Locals Vanquished Saturday by Staples High, Score Was 7 to 0

BRAINERD USED END RUNS

Staples Resorted to Line Plunges and a Passing Game Which Netted Them Victory (By L. P.)

The Blue and White were defeated Saturday by the strong Staples eleven by a score of 7 to 0. The game was slow and uninteresting. Neither side pulled any good plays. Staples used a line plunging and passing game, Brainerd used end runs and were not successful on them.

The first quarter Brainerd was penalized at least 50 yards for off side on nearly every play they pulled. Staples took advantage of the penalizing and gained her ground throughout the first quarter.

The second quarter Staples and Brainerd were fighting hard. Staples had the ball on Brainerd's three yard line, and they did not go over in four downs. This showed there was fight in the team. Brainerd's ball on the one yard line and Brainerd punted, but was blocked. Johnson of Staples recovered the ball for a touchdown behind Brainerd's goal. Staples kicked goal, making the score 7 to 0. The half ended with Staples in possession of the ball.

The third quarter Brainerd started to show what she was made of. Line plunges and tackle plays were pulled.

The fourth quarter Brainerd fought hard to score. Just as the closing minutes of play came, Capt. Fogelstrom received a forward pass. It looked like a touchdown for Brainerd, but a Staples halfback nailed him and this ended the game.

Staples plays a return game October 27th.

RUTH VOTED MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago, Sept. 22.—"Babe" Ruth of the New York Americans, pennant winners of the American league for 1923, was declared to be the most valuable player to his team and was awarded the American league trophy for the season, having received the highest possible number of points and setting a record that can be tied but never beaten.

Ruth was the unanimous choice of the committee appointed to select the American league player who has been of greatest service to his team during the championship season, registering first place on every ballot—one from each of the eight cities in their circuit—for a total of 64 counts.

Announcement of the award was made yesterday by President Ban Johnson of the league.

How complete was the comeback staged by the Yankee slugger this year can be seen from the fact that in the 1922 trophy contest, which was won by George Siler, of the St. Louis Browns, with 59 points, Ruth was not mentioned among the eight best players of the year.

Eddie Collins, of the Chicago White Sox, stood second to Ruth in this year's contest with 37 points. He was named as the best player on the Chicago team by all eight of the committeemen. Last season Collins was fifth with 18 points.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit, is rated third and Gerber of St. Louis and Joe Sewell of Cleveland, are tied for fourth, each with 20 points.

Ruth's name will be inscribed on the 1923 tablet of the $100,000 monument to be erected in East Potomac park at Washington, and presented to the United States government by the American league as a memorial to baseball and a hall of fame to perpetuate the memories of its greatest players.

The award was made by a committee of eight baseball writers, one in each city, each of whom selected the best players of the season on each team, and ranked them according to his individual opinion on ballots so arranged that first place counted eight points, second place seven points, etc.

The following year he went to Baltimore where he played one season. He became a member of the Boston Red Sox of the American league in 1915. After five seasons with Boston, Ruth was purchased by the New York club in 1920. He has been a member of the Yankees ever since. Two years ago Ruth established a record for home runs for a season, cracking out 59.

FANNING WITH ARRELL

UNCLE SAM SHARES BIG FIGHT PURSES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 24.—Many opportunities may be presented for Jack Dempsey to resume work late this fall and during the winter, but there is little chance that he will accept any offers to fight again until next year.

Some time ago several promoters went after Jack Kearns to sign Dempsey for a match with Harry Greb, the middleweight champion, for a late, outdoor or an early indoor show, and Kearns refused to consider any purse.

Kearns said that Dempsey had earned all he was allowed to this year and he pointed out that the firm had reached the limit allowed by the law in his class and if they exceeded it they would have to pay about 60 per cent of the purse money to the government in taxes.

Under the present conditions, Dempsey gets an awful socking by the revenue department every time he puts on the gloves. It sounds like a pipe to hear of Dempsey getting $200,000, $350,000 and $5,000,000 for a fight, but if the fans could see what is left for him when he is through splitting up with Kearns and the government, they would not be howling for congressional action to cut down the money that he is earning.

Out of a $300,000 purse, Dempsey has just about $100,000 for himself when he gets through whacking out the other ends of the money. Of course, $100,000 is not to be sneezed at, but it is not $300,000. The money that a heavyweight gets for the actual defense of his title is rather trivial, however, compared to the receipts from other sources of revenue that are opened by possession of the title.

It is understood that Dempsey's revenue averaged from $3,500 to $5,000 per week for three years. He earned a lot of money on the stage, in the movies and for the use of his name for advertising purposes.

Babe Ruth, it is said, got close to $10,000 royalties last year from a manufacturing firm who sold Babe Ruth caps. He got almost as much from the sale of suspenders, belts and baseball uniforms bearing his name and from the literary masterpieces turned out under his signature.

Dempsey's revenue from the same source must have been much more, because the heavyweight championship is worth more in advertising even than the clout title of baseball.

Firpo, it is understood, made a half million dollars in seven months when he was fighting his way up to a championship bout with Dempsey. The South American, however, got practically every cent of his earnings for himself, as he has no manager. Dempsey and Kearns, it is said, work fifty-fifty on everything.

Dempsey, however, should give Kearns a big split, as he would not have earned as much if he had been taking it all if he did not have such a schrowd manager.

Kearns not only made the big purses possible for Dempsey but he increased the scale of wages for every boxer in every division.

"Jack Kearns is the greatest manager that ever lived," Johnny Kilbane, the former featherweight champion, said at Shelby, before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. "If he had not been persistent enough and game enough to brave criticism and force the promoters to give him real money, champions and the rest of the boxers would still be working for pork-and-bean wages. He argued that the fighters made the show and that they were entitled to make at least as much as the promoters and he got away with it."

Kilbane was crafty enough to do his own managing and Johnny Dundee, the present featherweight champion, has also handled himself for several years. It is argued that Dundee would have made much more money if he had someone to handle his affairs with all the more push.

BOXER LOSES 10 POUNDS TRAINING WITH ELEVEN

Sioux City, Sept. 24.—W. H. "Big" Munn, returned from Lincoln after a week of intensive work with the University of Nebraska football squad and announced that he had lost 10 pounds. His present weight is 261. After a short stay at his home here he will go to St. Paul to train under the expert eye of Mike Gibbons. Whether or not he will be able to make his first fight by the middle of October depends, he said, on how fast he comes along at St. Paul.

STRANGE BIRD SHOT BY HUNTER NEAR HIBBING

Hibbing, Sept. 24.—Howard Rustad, state game warden here, came into possession of a strange bird. He says it is neither a partridge, a grouse or a prairie chicken. Rustad seized the bird from a man defeated by May in the semifinals.

who had been hunting near Sand lake, who claimed it a grouse, but the bird is not marked like a grouse, neither has it the markings of a prairie chicken. It is a larger bird than the ordinary partridge and its bill is sharper. Rustad is of the belief that the bird is a "half breed" and a freak of nature. It is the strangest looking fowl, he claims, he has seen in all his hunting experience. It has been sent to the office of the department in St. Paul.

Jackson Eliminated in National Shoe Tourney

Cleveland, Sept. 24.—Playing in the national horseshoe tournament here today, Loren May, Akron, established a world's record when he threw 22 ringers out of 28 shoes. Frank Jackson, Kellerton, Iowa, three times national champion, was eliminated.
